

The old bus chugged towards the Heritage Museum. Only five minutes to go. It was school tour time again and amid the shouting, paper flicking, singing and general chaos that existed on the bus sat two best friends, Sam and Lisa. Of course they were sitting away from each other because teachers never allow friends to sit together.

‘You’ll only get each other into trouble,’ explained Miss Fussy.

It would, however, take more than Miss Fussy to keep Sam and Lisa apart because when these two friends got together, they could turn anything into an adventure, even a boring school tour.

The bus pulled over to the side of the road and stopped. Mr Groggy, the bus driver, leaned back in his seat and sighed. He unfolded a crumpled map and scratched his head in puzzlement.

Miss Fussy approached the front of the bus to assist.

‘Here’s where we are,’ she said pointing to the map. ‘Continue northwards, take the first right, then the second right, then left, then right, then left. The next place you come to will be the Heritage Museum.’

Which number is the Heritage Museum?
Turn to the same page as your answer.

